Investing in small and mid-cap companies involve additional risks such as limited liquidity and greater volatility.

Fixed Income Securities (Bonds): Bonds are promissory notes of a United States corporation or federal government entity (taxable bonds) or a state or local government entity (tax-exempt or municipal bonds). Bonds usually make a series of interest payments followed by a return of principal at maturity. If sold prior to maturity, the price that can be obtained for a bond may be more or less than face value, depending on interest rates at the time the bond is sold and the remaining term of the bond.

Fixed income securities include Treasuries (i.e., public obligations of the U.S. Treasury that have remaining maturities of more than one year), government-related issues (i.e., agency, sovereign, supranational, and local authority debt), and corporate bonds.

Investments in fixed-income securities are subject to market, interest rate, credit/default, inflation and other risks. Bond prices fluctuate inversely to changes in interest rates. Therefore, a general rise in interest rates can result in the decline in the bond's price. Lower rated securities are speculative and involve greater risk of default.

Term: Short-term bonds have effective maturities of five years or less, intermediate bonds have effective maturities between five and ten years; and long-term bonds have maturities of ten years or longer.

Income from tax exempt bonds is generally free from federal and state taxes for residents of the issuing state. While the interest income is tax-free, capital gains if any are subject to taxes. Income of certain tax-exempt bonds may be subject to the Federal Alternative Minimum Tax (AMT).

Real Assets: Real Assets includes Public Real Estate, Private Real Estate and Commodities. Public Real Estate includes listed real-estate companies and equity and mortgage REITs. A REIT combines the capital of many investors to either acquire or provide financing for real estate. Private Real Estate is an investment that uses an active management strategy consisting of both direct and secondary ownership of equity and debt interests in various types of real property. Commodities are usually agricultural products such as corn, livestock, coffee and cocoa or metals such as gold, copper and silver, or energy products such as oil and natural gas. Commodities can either be sold on the spot market for immediate delivery or on the commodities exchanges for later delivery. Trade on commodities exchanges is usually in the form of future contracts.

There are special risks associated with an investment in real estate, including possible illiquidity of the underlying properties, credit risk, interest rate fluctuations and the impact of varied economic conditions. Mortgage REITs will be subject to interest rate fluctuations and to the spread between short-term and long-term bond rates. Privately offered real estate funds are speculative and involve a high degree of risk. Investments in real estate have special risks, including the possible illiquidity of the underlying properties, credit risk, interest rate fluctuations, and the impact of varied economic conditions. There can be no assurance a secondary market will exist and there may be restrictions on transferring interests. The commodities markets are considered speculative, carry substantial risks, and have experienced periods of extreme volatility.

Multi-Class: This category is primarily used to classify investments that include a substantial amount of both equity and fixed income investments, or some other combination of classes.

Cash Alternatives: Cash Alternatives include liquid, short term and interest bearing investments. Examples are Treasury bills and commercial paper. It is possible to lose money by investing in cash alternatives.

Wells Fargo Advisors is a trade name used by Wells Fargo Clearing Services, LLC and Wells Fargo Advisors Financial Network, LLC, separate registered broker-dealers and non-bank affiliates of Wells Fargo & Company. CAR 0717-03307

Understanding Your Portfolio

General Information

Investing involves risk, including the possible loss of principal. This report is intended to provide you with a descriptive overview of your current portfolio. The report may encompass one account or multiple accounts as specified in this report. The material has been prepared or is distributed solely for information purposes and does not supersede the proper use of your Wells Fargo Advisors client statements and/or trade confirmations, which are considered to be the official and accurate records of your account activity. Any market prices are only indications of market values, are subject to change, and may not reflect the value at which the securities could be sold. Reported prices should not be considered actual bids. For these reports, in certain groupings, Corporate Bonds includes Certificates of Deposit. Additionally, the report is prepared as of trade data, rather than settlement data, and may be prepared on a different date than your statement. The information contained in this report may not reflect all holdings or transactions, their costs, or proceeds in your account.

The report may also include information you provided about assets held at other firms. Information on assets held away from Wells Fargo Advisors was provided by you and may not be covered by SIPC. We have relied solely on information from you regarding those assets. We do not verify or confirm those assets held with other firms or affiliates and you are responsible for notifying your Financial Advisor of any changes in your externally held investments including cost basis. Incomplete or inaccurate cost basis will affect your plan results because the tax assumptions are incorrect. Due to timing issues, if this report includes assets held at a Trust Company, positions and market data should be verified. Before making any decisions please validate your account information with your Financial Advisor. The financial data used to generate this report is provided to Wells Fargo Advisors by third party vendors. While this information is believed to be reliable, it has not been verified. Security ID will be ticker symbol, CUSIP number, Security Number or, if you have provided us with a market value of a generic asset classification type, we will assign a dash. This report is not complete unless all pages noted are included. For more detailed information, including current pricing, call your Financial Advisor.

To the extent that this report includes fixed income securities, you should be aware that the descriptions of fixed income securities are general in nature and do not reflect important information that you should consider, such as but not limited to, yield, call features, credit quality, and various tax implications. Before making any decisions regarding fixed income investments, contact your advisor to obtain more detailed information regarding specific fixed income securities.

Asset classification of holdings in external accounts where classification is not readily available may be assigned to a multi-asset class category or reassigned into additional asset classes by your Financial Advisor which may not be the most accurate asset class based on the holding's characteristics and risk profile. It is your responsibility to review the asset classification for external accounts and notify us of any changes.

External Accounts Included In Your Report

As a service, we may have included your assets and/or your liabilities held at other financial institutions. We assume no responsibility for the accuracy or completeness of the information you provided either to your Financial Advisor or through any third party aggregation service regarding your assets or liabilities held at other firms. In addition, any transactions, values or changes in your external accounts will not be reflected unless you provide updated information to your Financial Advisor. In instances where you use a third party aggregation service, we rely on you to take action when notified by the third party service that updates are needed. The accuracy and completeness of the information you provide may materially affect the results and any recommendations contained in this report.

If we have included or if you have provided us with information on accounts managed by you or an affiliate of Wells Fargo Advisors, including self-directed Wells Trade accounts at Wells Fargo Advisors, and fiduciary accounts at Wells Fargo Bank, N.A., you should understand that Wells Fargo Advisors has no authority to manage, direct or influence the accounts. Asset Class Descriptions

The asset class descriptions below are included solely to provide insight into how individual securities are tied to specific asset classes. We use our best efforts to correctly classify investments. However, no warranty of accuracy is made.

Equity Investments: Equity investments refer to buying stocks of United States companies. The investment return to the owner of stock (shareholder) is in the form of dividends and/or capital appreciation. The market capitalization of companies is used to group large, medium (Mid), and small companies. Shareholders share in both the upside potential and the downside risk.

Capitalization: Market capitalization definitions differ but one example of capitalization methodology is that of Morningstar, which defines "large-capitalization" stocks as those stocks that form the top 70% of the market capitalization of the stocks eligible to be included in the Morningstar US Market Index (a diversified broad market index that represents approximately 97% of the market capitalization of publicly traded U.S. Stocks). The Morningstar Index methodology defines "mid-capitalization" stocks as those stocks that form the 20% of market capitalization between the 70th and 90th percentile of the market capitalization and "small-capitalization" stocks as those stocks that form the 7% of market capitalization between the 90th and 97th percentile of the market capitalization of the stocks eligible to be included in the Morningstar US Market Index.

This report is not a substitute for official tax reporting. This report separates the holdings, first based on the taxability at the account level. The secondary aggregation is Tax Type which is used to aggregate securities based on their assumed taxability of income (interest and dividends) at the time of this report. Classifications are made by data sources we deem reliable; however, we do not guarantee the accuracy of these classifications. Most securities are subject to capital gains taxes and some may be considered in calculations for Alternative Minimum Tax (AMT) that are not so designated here. This report does not attempt to portray phantom income (income accreted or accrued but not paid) on discount or zero coupon securities. You should consult with your tax advisor regarding the taxability of your holdings. The following tax type classifications may be included in this report: AMT - subject to Alternative Minimum Tax; Dividend - taxable as dividend income; Federal - income taxable by federal government (state and local income taxes may not apply); Non-Federal - income non-taxable by federal government but may be subject to state and local taxes; Taxable - income taxable by federal, state and local taxes; and Not Available - taxability undetermined.

Estimated Income Annualized (EIA) takes your current income, based on the current dividends or interest paid by your securities and multiplies it to create an annualized hypothetical figure. It does not reflect actual or future performance and should not be relied upon when making financial decisions. All annualizations are based upon current positions using a simple mathematical calculation and assumes all figures remain constant for a year; any subsequent position changes will affect these calculations. Calculations for certain types of securities could include a return of principal or capital gain, in which case the figures would be overstated. Past performance is not a guarantee of future results. Dividend payments are made solely at the discretion of the issuer and are subject to be changed or eliminated.

at any time. Estimated Income is an estimate and the actual income might be lower or higher than the estimated amount. Estimated Income reflects only the income generated by an investment. It does not reflect changes in price, which may fluctuate.

This report is not complete without the Understanding Your Portfolio report which contains important terms and definitions.

Reported prices should not be considered actual bids. For these reports, in certain groupings, Corporate Bonds includes Certificates of Deposit. Before making any decisions regarding fixed income investments, contact your advisor to obtain more detailed information regarding specific fixed income securities.

Asset classification of holdings in external accounts where classification is not readily available may be assigned to a multi-asset class category or reassigned into additional asset classes by your Financial Advisor which may not be the most accurate asset class based on the holdings' characteristics and risk profile. It is your responsibility to review the asset classification for external accounts and notify us of any changes.

Fixed Income Analysis

Municipal bonds: Under present federal income tax law, the interest income received from investing in tax-exempt municipal bonds is generally free from federal income taxes. While the interest income may be tax-free, capital gains, if any, will be subject to taxes. Income for some investors may be subject to the federal Alternative Minimum Tax (AMT).

Asset Class Descriptions

The asset class descriptions below are included solely to provide insight into how individual securities are tied to specific asset classes. We use our best efforts to correctly classify investments. However, no warranty of accuracy is made.

Equity Investments: Equity Investments refer to buying stocks of United States companies.

The investment return to the owner of stock (shareholder) is in the form of dividends and/or capital appreciation. The market capitalization of companies is used to group large, medium (Mid), and small companies. Shareholders share in both the upside potential and the downside risk.

Capitalization: Market capitalization definitions differ, but one example of capitalization methodology is that of Morningstar, which defines "large-capitalization" stocks as those stocks that form the top 70% of the market capitalization of the stocks eligible to be included in the Morningstar

US Market Index (a diversified broad market index that represents approximately 97% of the market capitalization of publicly traded U.S. Stocks). The Morningstar Index methodology defines "mid-capitalization" stocks as those stocks that form the 20% of market capitalization between the 70th and 90th percentile of the market capitalization and "small-capitalization" stocks as those stocks that form the 7% of market capitalization between the 90th and 97th percentile of the market capitalization of the stocks eligible to be included in the Morningstar US Market Index.

Investing in small and mid-cap companies involve additional risks such as limited liquidity and greater volatility.

Fixed Income Securities (Bonds): Bonds are promissory notes of a United States corporation or federal government entity (taxable bonds) or a state or local government entity (tax-exempt or municipal bonds). Bonds usually make a series of interest payments followed by a return of principal at maturity. If sold prior to maturity, the price that can be obtained for a bond may be more or less than face value, depending on interest rates at the time the bond is sold and the remaining term of the bond.

Fixed income securities include Treasuries (i.e., public obligations of the U.S. Treasury that have remaining maturities of more than one year), government-related issues (i.e., agency, sovereign, supranational, and local authority debt), and corporate bonds.

Investments in fixed-income securities are subject to market, interest rate, credit/default, inflation and other risks. Bond prices fluctuate inversely to changes in interest rates. Therefore, a general rise in interest rates can result in the decline in the bond's price. Lower rated securities are speculative and involve greater risk of default.

Term: Short-term bonds have effective maturities of five years or less, intermediate bonds have effective maturities between five and ten years, and long-term bonds have maturities of ten years or longer.

Income from tax exempt bonds is generally free from federal and state taxes for residents of the issuing state. While the interest income is tax-free, capital gains if any are subject to taxes. Income of certain tax-exempt bonds may be subject to the Federal Alternative Minimum Tax (AMT).

Real Assets: Real Assets includes Public Real Estate, Private Real Estate and Commodities. Public Real Estate includes listed real-estate companies and equity and mortgage REITs. A REIT combines the capital of many investors to either acquire or provide financing for real estate. Private Real Estate is an investment that uses an active management strategy consisting of both direct and secondary ownership of equity and debt interests in various types of real property. Commodities are usually agricultural products such as corn, livestock, coffee and cocoa or metals such as gold, copper and silver, or energy products such as oil and natural gas. Commodities can either be sold on the spot market for immediate delivery or on the commodities exchanges for later delivery. Trade on commodities exchanges is usually in the form of future contracts.

There are special risks associated with an investment in real estate, including possible illiquidity of the underlying properties, credit risk, interest rate fluctuations and the impact of varied economic conditions. Mortgage REITs will be subject to interest rate fluctuations and to the spread between short-term and long-term bond rates. Privately offered real estate funds are speculative and involve a high degree of risk. Investments in real estate have special risks, including the possible illiquidity of the underlying properties, credit risk, interest rate fluctuations, and the impact of varied economic conditions. There can be no assurance a secondary market will exist and there may be restrictions on transferring interests. The commodities markets are considered speculative, carry substantial risks, and have experienced periods of extreme volatility.

Multi-Class: This category is primarily used to classify investments that include a substantial amount of both equity and fixed income investments, or some other combination of classes.

Cash Alternatives: Cash Alternatives include liquid, short term and interest bearing investments. Examples are Treasury bills and commercial paper. It is possible to lose money by investing in cash alternatives.

Understanding Your Portfolio

General Information

Investing involves risk, including the possible loss of principal. This report is intended to provide you with a descriptive overview of your current portfolio. The report may encompass one account or multiple accounts as specified in the report. The material has been prepared or is distributed solely for information purposes and does not supersede the proper use of your Wells Fargo Advisors client statements and/or trade confirmations, which are considered to be the official and accurate records of your account activity. Any market prices are only indications of market values, are subject to change, and may not reflect the value at which the securities could be sold. Reported prices should not be considered actual bids. For these reports, in certain groupings, Corporate Bonds includes Certificates of Deposit. Additionally, the report is prepared as of trade date, rather than settlement date, and may be prepared on a different date than your statement. The information contained in this report may not reflect all holdings or transactions, their costs, or proceeds in your account.

The report may also include information you provided about assets held at other firms. Information on assets held away from Wells Fargo Advisors was provided by you and may not be covered by SIPC. We have relied solely on information from you regarding those assets. We do not verify or confirm those assets held with other firms or affiliates and you are responsible for notifying your Financial Advisor of any changes in your externally held investments including cost basis. Incomplete or inaccurate cost basis will affect your plan results because the tax assumptions are incorrect. Due to timing issues, if this report includes assets held at a Trust Company, positions and market data should be verified. Before making any decisions please validate your account information with your Financial Advisor. The financial data used to generate this report is provided to Wells Fargo Advisors by third party vendors. While this information is believed to be reliable, it has not been verified. Security ID will be ticker symbol, CUSIP number, Security Number or, if you have provided us with a market value of a generic asset classification type, we will assign a dash. This report is not complete unless all pages noted are included. For more detailed information, including current pricing, call your Financial Advisor.

To the extent that this report includes fixed income securities, you should be aware that the descriptions of fixed income securities are general in nature and do not reflect important information that you should consider, such as but not limited to, yield, call features, credit quality, and various tax implications. Before making any decisions regarding fixed income investments, contact your advisor to obtain more detailed information regarding specific fixed income securities.

Asset classification of holdings in external accounts where classification is not readily available may be assigned to a multi-asset class category or reassigned into additional asset classes by your Financial Advisor which may not be the most accurate asset class based on the holdings' characteristics and risk profile. It is your responsibility to review the asset classification for external accounts and notify us of any changes.

Asset Classes for mutual funds, variable annuities and exchange-traded funds are derived from Morningstar Categories. External Accounts Included in Your Report

As a service, we may have included your assets and/or your liabilities held at other financial institutions. We assume no responsibility for the accuracy or completeness of the information you provided either to your Financial Advisor or through any third party aggregation service regarding your assets or liabilities held at other firms. We may update the pricing of these securities; however, there may be cases when updating prices is not possible. In addition, any transactions, values or changes in your external accounts will not be reflected unless you provide updated information to your Financial Advisor. In instances where you use a third party aggregation service, we rely on you to take action when notified by the third party service that updates are needed. The accuracy and completeness of the information you provide may materially affect the results and any recommendations contained in this report.

If we have included or if you have provided us with information on accounts managed by you or an affiliate of Wells Fargo Advisors, including self-directed WellsTrade accounts at Wells Fargo Advisors, and fiduciary accounts at Wells Fargo Bank, N.A., you should understand that Wells Fargo Advisors has no authority to manage, direct or influence the accounts. With respect to such accounts, the Strategic Allocation listed in this report is for informational purposes only and should not be considered a recommendation from Wells Fargo Advisors or your Financial Advisor. Any asset allocation information presented in this report for external 401(k), 403(b), Government 457(b), Defined Benefit Plan, Trustee Defined Profit Sharing Plan or individual retirement accounts is for general asset allocation education and informational purposes only and should not be viewed as fiduciary investment advice.

Asset Class Descriptions

The asset class descriptions below are included solely to provide insight into how individual securities are tied to specific asset classes. We use our best efforts to correctly classify investments. However, no warranty of accuracy is made.

Equity Investments: Equity investments refer to buying stocks of United States companies. The investment return to the owner of stock (shareholder) is in the form of dividends and/or capital appreciation. The market capitalization of companies is used to group large, medium (Mid), and small companies. Shareholders share in both the upside potential and the downside risk.

Capitalization: Market capitalization definitions differ but one example of capitalization methodology is that of Morningstar, which defines "large-capitalization" stocks as those stocks that form the top 70% of the market capitalization of the stocks eligible to be included in the Morningstar US Market Index (a diversified broad market index that represents approximately 97% of the market capitalization of publicly traded U.S. Stocks). The Morningstar Index methodology defines "mid-capitalization" stocks as those stocks that form the 20% of market capitalization between the 70th and 90th percentile of the market capitalization and "small-capitalization" stocks as those stocks that form the 7% of market capitalization between the 90th and 97th percentile of the market capitalization of the stocks eligible to be included in the Morningstar US Market Index.

Investing in small and mid-cap companies involve additional risks such as limited liquidity and greater volatility.

Fixed Income Securities (Bonds): Bonds are promissory notes of a United States corporation or federal government entity (taxable bonds) or a state or local government entity (tax-exempt or municipal bonds). Bonds usually make a series of interest payments followed by a return of principal at maturity. If sold prior to maturity, the price that can be obtained for a bond may be more or less than face value, depending on interest rates at the time the bond is sold and the remaining term of the bond.

Fixed Income securities include Treasuries (i.e., public obligations of the U.S. Treasury that have remaining maturities of more than one year), government-related issues (i.e., agency, sovereign, supranational, and local authority debt), and corporate bonds.

Investments in fixed-income securities are subject to market, interest rate, credit/default, inflation and other risks. Bond prices fluctuate inversely to changes in interest rates. Therefore, a general rise in interest rates can result in the decline in the bond's price. Lower rated securities are speculative and involve greater risk of default.

Term: Short-term bonds have effective maturities of five years or less, intermediate bonds have effective maturities between five and ten years, and long-term bonds have maturities of ten years or longer.

Income from tax exempt bonds is generally free from federal and state taxes for residents of the issuing state. While the interest income is tax-free, capital gains if any are subject to taxes. Income of certain tax-exempt bonds may be subject to the Federal Alternative Minimum Tax (AMT).

Real Assets: Real Assets includes Public Real Estate, Private Real Estate and Commodities. Public Real Estate includes listed real-estate companies and equity and mortgage REITs. A REIT combines the capital of many investors to either acquire or provide financing for real estate. Private Real Estate is an investment that uses an active management strategy consisting of both direct and secondary ownership of equity and debt interests in various types of real property. Commodities are usually agricultural products such as corn, livestock, coffee and cocoa or metals such as gold, copper and silver, or energy products such as oil and natural gas. Commodities can either be sold on the spot market for immediate delivery or on the commodities exchanges for later delivery. Trade on commodities exchanges is usually in the form of future contracts.

There are special risks associated with an investment in real estate, including possible illiquidity of the underlying properties, credit risk, interest rate fluctuations and the impact of varied economic conditions. Mortgage REITs will be subject to interest rate fluctuations and to the spread between short-term and long-term bond rates. Privately offered real estate funds are speculative and involve a high degree of risk. Investments in real estate have special risks, including the possible illiquidity of the underlying properties, credit risk, interest rate fluctuations, and the impact of varied economic conditions. There can be no assurance a secondary market will exist and there may be restrictions on transferring interests. The commodities markets are considered speculative, carry substantial risks, and have experienced periods of extreme volatility.

Multi-Class: This category is primarily used to classify investments that include a substantial amount of both equity and fixed income investments, or some other combination of classes.

Cash Alternatives: Cash Alternatives include liquid, short term and interest bearing investments. Examples are Treasury bills and commercial paper. It is possible to lose money by investing in cash alternatives.

Wells Fargo Advisors is a trade name used by Wells Fargo Clearing Services, LLC and Wells Fargo Advisors Financial Network, LLC, separate registered broker-dealers and non-bank affiliates of Wells Fargo & Company. CAR 0717-03307

This report is not a substitute for official tax reporting. This report separates the holdings, first based on the taxability at the account level. The secondary aggregation is Tax Type which is used to aggregate securities based on their assumed taxability of income (interest and dividends) at the time of this report. Classifications are made by data sources we deem reliable, however, we do not guarantee the accuracy of these classifications. Most securities are subject to capital gains taxes and some may be considered in calculations for Alternative Minimum Tax (AMT) that are not so designated here. This report does not attempt to portray phantom income (income accreted or accrued but not paid) on discount or zero coupon securities. You should consult with your tax advisor regarding the taxability of your holdings.

The following tax type classifications may be included in this report: AMT - subject to Alternative Minimum Tax; Dividend - taxable as dividend income; Federal - income taxable by federal government (state and local income taxes may not apply); Non-Federal - income non-taxable by federal government but may be subject to state and local taxes; Taxable - income taxable by federal, state and local taxes; and Not Available - taxability undetermined.

Estimated Income Annualized (EIA) takes your current income, based on the current dividends or interest paid by your securities and multiplies it to create an annualized hypothetical figure. It does not reflect actual or future performance and should not be relied upon when making financial decisions. All annualizations are based upon current positions using a simple mathematical calculation and assumes all figures remain constant for a year; any subsequent position changes will affect these calculations. Calculations for certain types of securities could include a return of principal or capital gain, in which case the figures would be overstated. Past performance is not a guarantee of future results. Dividend payments are made solely at the discretion of the issuer and are subject to be changed or eliminated at any time. Estimated income is an estimate and the actual income might be lower or higher than the estimated amount. Estimated income reflects only the income generated by an investment. It does not reflect changes in price, which may fluctuate.

This report is not complete without the Understanding Your Portfolio report which contains important terms and definitions.

FNLMA pass-through securities, FHLMC Participation Certificates and FHLMC Gold Participation Certificates are fully guaranteed as to the timely payment of principal and interest by FNLMA. These securities are not backed by the full faith and credit of the U.S. Government. GNMA, GNMA's are backed by the full faith and credit of the U.S. Government. The market value of all these securities prior to redemption is not guaranteed and may fluctuate. Treasuries are direct U.S. Government sponsored entities. Asset Class Descriptions

The asset class descriptions below are included solely to provide insight into how individual securities are tied to specific asset classes. We use our best efforts to correctly classify investments. However, no warranty of accuracy is made.

Equity Investments: Equity investments refer to buying stocks of United States companies. The investment return to the owner of stock (shareholder) is in the form of dividends and/or capital appreciation. The market capitalization of companies is used to group large, medium (Mid), and small companies. Shareholders share in both the upside potential and the downside risk.

Capitalization: Market capitalization definitions differ but one example of capitalization methodology is that of Morningstar, which defines "large-capitalization" stocks as those stocks that form the top 70% of the market capitalization of the stocks eligible to be included in the Morningstar US Market Index (a diversified broad market index that represents approximately 97% of the market capitalization of publicly traded U.S. Stocks). The Morningstar Index methodology defines "mid-capitalization" stocks as those stocks that form the 20% of market capitalization between the 70th and 90th percentile of the market capitalization and "small-capitalization" stocks as those stocks that form the 7% of market capitalization between the 90th and 97th percentile of the market capitalization of the stocks eligible to be included in the Morningstar US Market Index.

Investing in small and mid-cap companies involve additional risks such as limited liquidity and greater volatility.

Fixed Income Securities (Bonds): Bonds are promissory notes of a United States corporation or federal government entity (taxable bonds) or a state or local government entity (tax-exempt or municipal bonds). Bonds usually make a series of interest payments followed by a return of principal at maturity. If sold prior to maturity, the price that can be obtained for a bond may be more or less than face value, depending on interest rates at the time the bond is sold and the remaining term of the bond.

Fixed income securities include Treasuries (i.e., public obligations of the U.S. Treasury that have remaining maturities of more than one year), government-related issues (i.e., agency, sovereign, supranational, and local authority debt), and corporate bonds.

Investments in fixed-income securities are subject to market, interest rate, credit/default, inflation and other risks. Bond prices fluctuate inversely to changes in interest rates. Therefore, a general rise in interest rates can result in the decline in the bond's price. Lower rated securities are speculative and involve greater risk of default.

Term: Short-term bonds have effective maturities of five years or less, intermediate bonds have effective maturities between five and ten years, and long-term bonds have maturities of ten years or longer.

Income from tax exempt bonds is generally free from federal and state taxes for residents of the issuing state. While the interest income is tax-free, capital gains if any are subject to taxes. Income of certain tax-exempt bonds may be subject to the Federal Alternative Minimum Tax (AMT).

Real Assets: Real Assets include Public Real Estate, Private Real Estate and Commodities. Public Real Estate includes listed real-estate companies and equity and mortgage REITs. A REIT combines the capital of many investors to either acquire or provide financing for real estate. Private Real Estate is an investment that uses an active management strategy consisting of both direct and secondary ownership of equity and debt interests in various types of real property. Commodities are usually agricultural products such as corn, livestock, coffee and cocoa or metals such as gold, copper and silver, or energy products such as oil and natural gas. Commodities can either be sold on the spot market for immediate delivery or on the commodities exchanges for later delivery. Trade on commodities exchanges is usually in the form of future contracts.

There are special risks associated with an investment in real estate, including possible illiquidity of the underlying properties, credit risk, interest rate fluctuations and the impact of varied economic conditions. Mortgage REITs will be subject to interest rate fluctuations and to the spread between short-term and long-term bond rates. Privately offered real estate funds are speculative and involve a high degree of risk. Investments in real estate have special risks, including the possible illiquidity of the underlying properties, credit risk, interest rate fluctuations, and the impact of varied economic conditions. There can be no assurance a secondary market will exist and there may be restrictions on transferring interests. The commodities markets are considered speculative, carry substantial risks, and have experienced periods of extreme volatility.

Multi-Class: This category is primarily used to classify investments that include a substantial amount of both equity and fixed income investments, or some other combination of classes.

Cash Alternatives: Cash Alternatives include liquid, short term and interest bearing investments. Examples are Treasury bills and commercial paper. It is possible to lose money by investing in cash alternatives.
